How to join

Who can join?

Anyone is welcome to join, regardless of their degree subject, or point in their degree. Our events tailor to those from all disciplines, and 60% of our members study a non-law subject.

How much does membership cost?

Membership costs £35 per annum, or £50 if you buy it for the duration of your degree.

How do I join?

The first way you can join is through membership drives. These will appear at events such as the fresher's fair. You can also join via the Oxford Law Society website at any time.

Why should I join?

The Society regularly hosts events with some of the biggest names in the legal world, so it is a great way to learn more about legal careers and network with some of the most knowledgeable people. It is also a great way to meet others interested in a career in Law, and also gives you the opportunity to run for the Law Soc committee.
